

Wave IP Subscription Program

Protecting your Investment.

Your Vertical Wave IP Business Communications System is engineered to grow with you, thereby protecting your investment. As time passes, it remains a state-of-the-art business communications tool because new features and enhancements are easily added via simple software upgrades. Your access to the latest advances is guaranteed by the cost-effective Vertical Wave IP Subscription Program, which assures you of software updates through the life of the system.

Immediate access to updates

Wave IP delivers a suite of advanced, productivity-enhancing business communications applications that go far beyond the capabilities of conventional phone systems. We developed the Wave IP Subscription Program to ensure that, as time passes, your Wave IP system will stay current with tomorrow's enhancements and innovations. Each time we make updates to Wave's applications — including the intuitive ViewPoint™ desktop call management tool, visual voicemail, unified messaging, call recording, Wave Contact Center, Wave Call Classifier, WaveNet and other productivity applications — customers enrolled in the Wave IP Subscription Program automatically receive the new software.

Wave IP is an open, software-based Business Communications System and is easily updated via software upgrades. New features and updated support for new standards can be implemented quickly. The Wave IP Subscription Program maximizes the return on your investment year after year. And there are no costly and time-consuming forklift upgrades.

Get more. Spend less.

The Wave IP Subscription Program is the quickest and most cost-effective means of protecting your Wave IP investment. As a Wave IP subscriber, you get immediate access to new Wave IP features and technologies as they become available. An annual subscription fee ensures that all new feature enhancements are delivered to you automatically - and at a significant savings over the cost of purchasing them individually as a non-subscription customer.

Invest with confidence

We're eager to show you how the Vertical Wave IP Subscription Program can ensure that your Wave IP system continues to deliver the best return on your investment over the long term by keeping your system current at a fraction of the cost of non-subscription upgrades.
